

wind

There is so much wind in the jackfruit trees right now they look like they are at sea. When they pull the current in, the door behind me is sucked open and then the tree takes its big breath and like a crashing wave, slams the thing back. Now the set has passed, the fruit hang like udders on a cow, ripe, full, heavy.

7/30/11